

Studying and Living in Europe

Ashwin Malik

EDUCATION

- The fantastic interdisciplinary facet.
 - Engaging with topics that are very pertinent in the current context of things.
 - Cultural geography.
 - The Anthropocene.
- Hands-on learning.
 - The Emirates Air Line across the Thames.
 - Greenwich, south-east London.
 - Ethnographic research.

TRAVEL

- The phenomenal EU-wide transport infrastructure network.
 - Affordable and convenient flights and trains.
- But moreover, the multicultural immersion is absolutely unprecedented.
 - My interactions in the Dutch capital.
 - What do you gain? Well, it broadens your horizons in terms of your belief set and your
- Try to befriend your flat mates/neighbors.
 - St. Albans.

EXPERIENCES

- Getting acquainted with the options at your disposal.
- Personally, one of the best time-management lessons.
- But also one of the most enjoyable ones!
- In a liberal environment, like the one in most big European cities, it is of paramount importance to be held accountable for your actions.

A TRANSFORMATIVE JOURNEY

- I discovered my penchant for working in the higher education sector.
 - Thus, Athena Education.
 - It certainly solidified my faith in working towards an overarching career goal.
 - And well, what happens in EU, certainly does not stay in EU!
 - It's a gateway to the dynamic and interconnected world that awaits its leaders of tomorrow!

THE FUTURE OF ERASMUS+

- A 12% increase in the budget!
- Numerous new opportunities that are up for grabs.
- Oh well, I cannot wait to embark on the second leg of my Erasmus journey!

THANK YOU,
AND WISH YOU ALL THE VERY BEST!
